Lyndon LaRouche:

The British Empire's WWII plan must be stopped this weekend!

American statesman and economist Lyndon LaRouche issued the following emergency statement on 24th November, the evening of the U.S. Thanksgiving holiday. Russia has since deployed three of its warships into harms way off the coast of Syria, as a war avoidance measure since its warnings against an attack have fallen on deaf ears in Washington and London; Russia is betting its move will reinforce the position of the U.S. military leaders who are emphatically opposed to a war, and the saner heads in Washington will not want to risk a showdown. On the other hand, the British-Saudi manipulated Arab League has hit Syria with provocative sanctions, the Turks have stepped up their rhetoric and actions against Syria at the same time as they have signed deals with the British for military and strategic cooperation, and NATO inflicted enormous damage on its alliance with Pakistan after attacking the Pakistan border on the weekend and killing 28 Pakistani soldiers. We are witnessing the drive for a war designed by London as a chaos operation like the Seven Years War [ending 1763], designed to collapse London's dupes one after another like ninepins, and thus to force Russia and China into the conflict, unleashing a thermonuclear World War III and bringing about the oligarchs' goal of depopulation.

"This empire is determined to set the nations of the world into a war with one another, which is intended that civilization as we've now known it, will no longer exist. This is not only a general prospect; this is the immediate situation this weekend. This is not a weekend like other weekends. We're now on the verge—and it's set in place right now—of a chain reaction, which could mean the extermination of civilization as we've known it.

"Now this is being set up by the British Empire, and nobody else. And nobody else. If you don't think the British Empire is the enemy, you don't understand the ABCs of the situation.

"A war now, do you know what it means? Do you know what thermonuclear weapons mean? Do you realize that what's going on in the Middle East, so-called, cannot be waged by anything other than nuclear weapons? This also means thermonuclear weapons?

"So don't talk about this interest, or that interest. Don't try to take sides in the silly quarrels which people are indulging in in the Middle East and elsewhere today. Pay no attention to this. They don't have any reality except stupidity. If you try to win these wars, you lose everything. You have to prevent these wars from occurring, or you lose everything.

"And the best example is to look at the study of the Seven Years War, from 1756 to 1763. And that war is the war that established the British Empire as the dominant imperial force on this planet. Because they induced the leading nations of continental Europe, and others, to make fools of themselves by fighting wars against one another, where the trick was, to get them to bleed themselves into weakness by fighting one another, and thus opening the gates for a British takeover, British imperial takeover, of the whole system. And that is exactly what happened.

"The only thing that saved civilization in that period, was the struggle of the United States, to create the United States. This struggle began, formally, in about 1620. It came with the settlement—and tonight, this is Thanksgiving. What's Thanksgiving represent? A party, a feast, that was being held in what became Massachusetts, including one of my ancestors. I'm one of those people who has a ancestor when that occurred ... but, on the Mayflower.

"But out of that came the struggle which came out of the Massachusetts Bay Colony, which was of the same kind of character, and this established in the United States, the concept which actually was attributable to Nicholas of Cusa. And this concept being created, despite the crushing of Massachusetts, in the latter part of the century, despite that, it set into motion something that stayed in motion, effectively from 1620 through the establishment of our Federal Republic.

"This is the only thing on this planet which has so far been able to cripple the attempts of the British Empire to realize the intention of becoming a new Roman Empire.

"We're now at the point where the corruption of the United States, has reached the point, that if we don't beat the Empire now, in what it's trying to do, and what it's trying to do with nuclear threats right now, we're lost. Civilization is lost. "So the solemnity of our cause, the devotion to that cause, an understanding that it lies in our hands to think clearly about how we do avoid falling into the traps the enemy sets for us ... And that's what should be on our minds. Because this is not something for the distant future. This is this weekend, this weekend. The plan is in place! It will set into motion World War III, right now.

"I think we can beat that. But we have to be determined to do so.

"So I think the element of solemnity at this occasion, ought to be taken into account.

"What does our life mean after all? We're born, we die. What's important about our life is what we leave to the future of humanity."

Isherwood: Stand with the nurses against government mass murder

Victoria's nurses are waging a moral battle against government budget cuts to healthcare that amount to mass murder, for which they deserve the gratitude and support of all Australians, Citizens Electoral Council leader Craig Isherwood said today.

"The Victorian nurses' strike is not a state issue," Isherwood said. "By fighting against the erosion of nurse-patient ratios, they are holding the line against the systematic bleeding of healthcare by successive state and federal governments over the past few decades, which has murdered countless Australians.

"I say 'murder', because it is true, as the loved ones of the thousands of victims would know", he said. "Furthermore, the callous Victorian Health Minister David Davis has effectively admitted it."

Isherwood quoted Davis from the 13th November Sydney Morning Herald, when the Health Minister attacked the nurses for closing 800 elective surgery beds as part of their industrial action, and accused the nurses of risking patients' lives: "There is no safe way to shut or cancel or close down a third of the hospital beds in Victoria", David said. "I'm not prepared to stand by and wait for someone in Victoria's hospitals to die unnecessarily."

Davis's statement amounts to a confession to institutional mass-murder, Isherwood charged.

"Victoria's previous Liberal government, under Jeff Kennett as premier, and Ted Baillieu as party president, decimated public healthcare in the state.

"By charging the nurses—of all people—with threatening lives by temporarily closing beds, Davis is actually acknowledging that Kennett directed a program of mass-murder by permanently closing many more beds."

Isherwood recounted how the Kennett government was directed by the British Crown's fascist economic think tank, the Mont Pelerin Society, through two of its Australian fronts, the Tasman Institute and the Institute of Public Affairs, which jointly wrote Kennett's 'reform' blueprint, called Project Victoria.

Under Project Victoria, from 1992-1999, Kennett: used the new casemix system to slash the total health budget by 10 per cent in the first two years slashed capital funding for public hospitals from $142 million to just $73 million in 1996 permanently closed 1,600 hospital beds cut the total healthcare workforce by 40,000 jobs between 1992-1997

cut nursing staff by 23 per cent, in the period patient numbers increased by 180,000 per year closed scores of hospitals, and corporatised most of the rest

The rate of unplanned remissions jumped up 24 per cent in the first two years of Kennett's butchering of public health, waiting lists skyrocketed by 22 per cent, and the ambulance service got used to constantly bypassing overcrowded hospitals.

Isherwood observed that Kennett's annihilation of public health has become the standard for the nation:

"From 1996, the federal Howard government cut billions of dollars from health spending, slashed the number of healthcare providers covered by Medicare, and introduced the private health insurance rebate to create a two-tier health system—a costly private one and a neglected public one.

"Labor is no better: when the Bracks-Brumby Labor government took over from Kennett in 1999, it continued Kennett's policy of closing hospital beds, until Victoria's beds per 1,000 population ratio dropped below the pitiful national average by 2004.

"The national healthcare reform trumpeted by Rudd and Gillard is based on imposing Kennett's casemix system of patient extermination across the whole nation."

Slashing funding from healthcare is a crime against humanity, Isherwood said.

"By the Nuremberg standard of 'knew or should have known', the government perpetrators of the destruction of Australia's healthcare system are guilty of the Nuremberg crime of the 'inadequate provision of surgical and medical services', for which Nazis were hanged."

Isherwood concluded by calling for a wall of money to be put back into healthcare:

"Forget all the managerial clap-trap about 'efficiency' and 'redundancy' etc. The bottom line in health is resources: hospitals, beds, doctors and nurses.

"The nurses shouldn't be left to fight this alone through industrial action," he said. "The CEC is fighting politically to force a change in policy. This is a fight that everyone must join."

To compare the CEC's record to that of the growing chorus of leaders, including PM Julia Gillard, who claim that nobody could have seen this crisis coming.
