

Time for Glass-Steagall Banking Separation and a National Bank

28 Apr 2019

Publication Type: Pamphlets

A handbook on Glass-Steagall banking separation, national banking, the crimes of the banks and 'bail-in'.

This 100 page document provides the urgently required solutions to rebuild the national economy right as a new financial crisis is unfolding.

Contents

Letter of Transmittal

Part 1. National Banking

The Hamiltonian Revolution and FDR's Glass-Steagall

Robert Barwick, CEC Executive Member and Research Director

This presentation at the CEC International Conference of March 2015, "The World Land-Bridge: Peace on Earth, Good Will towards All Men", established the principles and outstanding historical examples of productive credit-creation in the United States.

The Australian Precedents for a Hamiltonian Credit System

Craig Isherwood, CEC National Secretary

Australia is one of the few nations in the world with a history of explicitly applying Hamiltonian principles. Craig Isherwood brought this experience to life, in his speech to the March 2015 CEC conference.

Part 2. Fraud and Crimes of the Banks

The British Crown/City of London Criminal Financial Empire

The current international monetary system includes the category of "too-big-to-fail" banks, which governments are supposed to protect above all other priorities. Our institutional flowchart and summary of the banks' crimes, updated from its first appearance in the New Citizen in 2016, shows that protecting the TBTF banks is protecting systemic criminal activity.

- The Case of HSBC

'Bail-in': They Plan to Steal Your Personal Bank Deposits and Pensions!

In the ground-breaking investigations excerpted here, first published in 2013 and 2016, the CEC exposed the international megabanks' scheme for "bail-in"—the confiscation of assets from bank shareholders, creditors and depositors in a crisis—and their drive to impose it worldwide.

- The Impact of Bail-in on Europe
- How the CEC Disrupted the Global Bail-in Regime

Shut Down the Fraud of APRA

Australia's banking regulator protects the big banks, rather than the public. Documentation of the CEC's 2017-18 fight to block dictatorial bail-in powers for the Australian Prudential Regulation Authority, including the authority to confiscate bank bonds and deposits, appears here.

- CEC Submission: Replace APRA and 'Bail-in' with Glass-Steagall
- Separation of Australia's Banks
- Former APRA Researcher Urges MPs to Stop New APRA Laws
- Australian Finance Giants Are Sheep—and APRA Is the Shepherd

Crimes of the Australian Banks

- Banks Are Complicit in the Drug Trade

Part 3. Step One: Glass-Steagall Banking Separation

Proposal by the CEC of Australia for Glass-Steagall Separation of Australia's Banking

System

This July 2017 CEC policy paper establishes the Glass-Steagall principle, for separation of commercial banking from investment banking and other financial services, as the precondition for a banking system that meets the credit needs of the real economy.

China: Glass-Steagall Banking System and the Belt and Road Initiative

China's Belt and Road Initiative for infrastructure development, together with its programs to eradicate poverty, represent a new paradigm of economic development. They have been able to succeed because the Glass-Steagall principle was applied.

Part 4. Glass-Steagall and National Bank Legislation

Franklin Roosevelt's 1933 Glass-Steagall Act (excerpts)

The 21st Century Glass-Steagall Act of 2017 (excerpts of bill, USA)

Banking System Reform (Separation of Banks) Bill 2018 (CEC of Australia draft)

The Citizens Electoral Council of Australia has drafted this legislation to concretise the needed first step in banking reform, Glass-Steagall-model separation and protection of commercial lending from speculation, for Australia.

CEC Draft Legislation for Australia's New Commonwealth National Credit Bank (1994)

Printed from <http://citizensparty.org.au/print/pdf/node/346>, on 21 May 2024 at 12:05 am